I don't know how the weather is where you are, but here it's so hot and humid that my files are wilting. Good thing that this is a short issue--BAADER-MEINHOF and NEBRASKA both went out on flyers two weeks ago, so we only have three games. Note that we will be out of town Aug 18-Sept 3. Yes, it's vacation time. Don't expect the next issue to come out very quickly, either; you can count on a week delay. The deadlines will be adjusted. The new game will not start before the next deadline; please send me a preference list if you have one.

PARIS: On the proposal for a draw, France, surviving because of failed tactics by Austria, and offering proudly to surrender to the Tsarina, who ate the Tsardines, and refusing a tie if the opposing enemy allies stupidly misplay, votes No.

PAR-WAR: Will you play Whist, or bumble-puppy bridge? Go for the win. Off him!

CUNNING-GM: Now why would anyone want to harm a wonderful relationship like this by stabbing for 18 dots?

PARIS-THE GASCONS: Messrs. the Secretaries of War and Interior: Please let me know what is being done to train men in the use of the sticky buns, which is now beginning to come through in quantity. (Apologies to W. Churchill archives 7.8.40, amended)

PAR-MOS: They don't know me at MadCon. Don't be an arse. Win!

Hmmm, no room to begin espresso love here, so I must waste some space. Frauke's brother and a friend of his are visiting us and will be here until the beginning of September. They are both college students in Kiel. They plan to drive to the West Coast and stay in San Francisco for awhile, returning to Europe the first part of October. We had an interesting experience with the police the other night...apparently Ulf, one of our German guests, closely resembles a suspected felon. Some plain-cloth officers stopped us in a bar with guns drawn. I've never had a gun pointed at me before

FRA-ENG: Are you happy now?

DENMARK: If England had not ~~been~~ been such an inept idiot in 1901, he'd be in better shape now!

FRANCE-GERMANY: Don't tell me, tell Tighe.

COPENHAGEN-FRANCE & RUSSIA: Gee, fellows, it certainly is flattering to be fought over this way but both of you can go suck an egg.

TUR-GER: Lookslike Italy is going to save you from the Toadfather before I can. But who saves Italy? Aha!

RUS-FRA: All those calls must have cost a lot. Fortunately, I was doling out the centers to my allies before you tried to save your skin.

PAR-BER: Okay, you got my attention. Now what?

FRANCE MUSES: How does he do it? You can't even see the strings—yet Turkey ~~is~~ Howdy Doodys off to his own destruction. Amazing.

RUS-GER& TUR: Nice kitties, now, now, are you okay? (purr purr) Did that bad man try to scare you? (purr, purr, stroke, stroke) Now there, here, have some milk (slurp slurp).

TUR-FRA: Did you get my check yet? Will you settle for a picture of Peery in the poll?

PARIS-BERLIN: Recognizing that I wouldn't be doing this unless things looked real desperate...RUS-FRA: Looking forward to learning Titan when I come down.

TUR-RUS: This one gave me a headache this big.

CARL RUSSELL: You wimps couldn't make up any abusive press if it came up a seaunted on your face. So there.

DACHA IN SWITZERLAND: Oh...oh...oj yeah!
